The Life Story of Collo

Today, we gather to celebrate the beautiful life of our beloved Collo. His time with us was far too short, yet the love he shared and the joy he brought will remain in our hearts forever.

Collins “Collo” Namaswa was born on May 12, 2016, on a peaceful night, to his loving parents, Judy Cheruto and Nixon Namaswa Wetende. From the moment he entered this world, he brought immense joy, hope, and love to his family. As the second-born child, he shared a special bond with his older brother, Trevor Kiplangat. Together, they created cherished memories filled with laughter, adventure, and unconditional love.

Collo began his educational journey in kindergarten in Eldoret, Kenya, before continuing to primary school. He later joined Faye Webb Elementary School for Grade 1 and most recently attended Autumn Creek Elementary School. He successfully completed Grade 4 and had been promoted to Grade 5. He was a bright, curious, and determined learner who loved going to school, making friends, and discovering something new each day.

Those who knew Collo will always remember him as a joyful, loving, kind, and generous boy. His radiant smile and contagious laughter brought happiness to everyone around him. He had a gentle heart that made people feel welcome, valued, and loved. His kindness and cheerful spirit left a lasting impression on all who had the privilege of knowing him.

The Life Story of Collo

Family meant everything to Collo. He treasured every moment spent with his parents, Judy Cheruto and Nixon Namaswa Wetende, and his beloved brother, Trevor Kiplangat. He was deeply loved by his extended family, including his grandparents, cousins, aunts, uncles, and many other relatives who will forever cherish his memory.

Collo was a cherished grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Rotich of Kaminjei, Litein, Kericho County, and Grandma Joyce Osoro of Shilakhalu, Khwisero, Kakamega County. He shared a special bond with his cousins, including Natasha, Miller, Kimberly, Chelel, Kibet, Jewel Martha Waswa, J. Wanga, and many others. He was also a beloved nephew to Brian, Samson, Cheluget, Allan Wanga, Agnetta Amboko, Anthony Lubangah, and many relatives who loved him dearly.

Collo had a passion for soccer and loved staying active. He was happiest running on the field with his friends and enjoying every moment of the game he loved. He was also an enthusiastic gamer who especially enjoyed playing Fortnite, where he proudly used the character name “Ann1lator.”

Whether outdoors or online, Collo treasured the time he spent with his friends Jason, Njuguna, Harriet, Ryan, Tim, Zawadi, Thuo, Adriel, Nate, Kimberly, and Vicky. Together, they shared laughter, adventures, friendly competition, and unforgettable memories. Their friendship brought Collo great happiness, and the memories they created will forever be cherished.

The Life Story of Collo

Like many children his age, Collo found joy in life's simple pleasures—laughter, adventure, and spending time with those he loved. He especially enjoyed road trips and often preferred the excitement of the journey to the destination itself.

Although Collo's earthly journey lasted only ten precious years, he taught us lessons that many spend a lifetime trying to learn. He showed us the beauty of kindness, the power of a genuine smile, and the importance of loving others wholeheartedly. His life reminds us that greatness is not measured by the number of years we live, but by the love we share and the memories we leave behind.

As we say goodbye with heavy hearts, we also give thanks for the priceless gift of Collo's life. We will forever cherish his beautiful smile, infectious laughter, gentle heart, and the joy he brought into our lives. Though he is no longer with us in person, his love will remain with us always, inspiring us to live with kindness, compassion, and hope.

Rest in eternal peace, dear Collo.

You will always be deeply loved, forever remembered, and forever in our hearts.

A Tribute from Dad

To My Beloved Son, Collo

My dear Collo,

There are moments in life when words fall short, and this is one of them.

I never imagined I would stand here, searching for language to describe a pain so profound. My heart aches for you in ways I never knew were possible. A part of me left with you, and no passage of time can ever fill the space you now leave behind.

From the moment I first held you in my arms, you became the light of my world. You brought laughter into my days, purpose to my journey, and love into every corner of my life. You were not only my son—you were my companion, my greatest joy, my best friend.

We called each other “Bro.” Such a simple word, yet it carried a lifetime of meaning. It was our secret language of love, trust, and friendship. It was the name that bridged the distance between father and son and drew us close as two hearts walking life’s path together.

Every morning, before I left for work, you would come running to me with that bright smile that could chase away any worry. “Hey Dad, let’s play soccer before you go!” And sometimes, “Let’s do some workout before you go!”

Those moments seemed so ordinary then. Today, they are treasures beyond measure. I would give anything to hear those words one more time, to kick a ball with you beneath the morning sky, to watch your eyes light up with excitement, and to share just one more sunrise with my Bro.

A Tribute from Dad

Soccer was more than a game to us. It was where our hearts met. In every pass, every kick, and every laugh that echoed across the field, we were building memories that time can never erase. Though the field now feels empty, the footprints we left there remain forever etched upon my soul.

I remember the quiet moments too. When your mum was at work and I was home, you would climb into my bed and fall asleep beside me. You simply wanted to be close. You found comfort in our presence, and we found joy in yours. Those peaceful moments now shine in my memory like stars in a dark sky—small moments that have become priceless treasures.

You filled our home with warmth. You filled our lives with laughter. You filled our hearts with a love so pure that even death cannot take it away. You were happiness in its simplest form.

You loved your friends, and your excitement was contagious whenever you asked me to take you to visit them. Seeing you smile was one of life's greatest gifts. Wherever you went, you carried sunshine with you, leaving every place brighter than you found it.

My son, my Bro, you were my heart walking outside my body. Being your father was one of the greatest honors God ever gave me. You taught me patience, joy, wonder, and unconditional love. Through you, I learned that the richest moments in life are often the simplest—a soccer ball, a shared laugh, a warm hug, a child falling asleep beside his dad.

A Tribute from Dad

Today, I wrestle with questions that have no answers. Why did you have to leave so soon? Why was your beautiful story not allowed more pages? I do not know.

But I do know this: I will forever miss your voice calling me “Bro.” I will miss your hugs. I will miss your laughter. I will miss the sparkle in your eyes and the joy you brought into every day. There will always be an empty chair at the table of my heart—a place reserved only for you.

Thank you, my son. Thank you for every soccer game. For every workout. For every hug. For every smile. For every ordinary moment that became extraordinary because it was shared with you.

And though tears fill my eyes today, gratitude fills my soul, because I was blessed enough to be your dad.

Until the day we meet again, my beloved son, my Bro, may you run free in God’s eternal fields, where there is no pain, no sorrow, and no goodbye.

Carry my love with you, as I will carry yours with me. Forever. Always. Beyond this life and into eternity.

Rest peacefully, Collo.

A Tribute from Mum

To My Precious Son, Collins

My dear son,

On May 12, 2016, we welcomed you into this world with hearts overflowing with love. From the moment you arrived, you came as a blessing beyond measure. You filled our home with laughter, joy, and light. You made me, your mother, happier than I had ever been, and you made your big brother's dream come true—the sibling he had wished and prayed for over so many years.

My baby, my heart feels cheated and robbed of a love that can never be replaced.

No words are powerful enough to fully celebrate who you were or how deeply you were loved.

You were my perfect son.

The joy of watching you grow, of seeing the man you would become, was taken from me without warning. One moment I was dreaming of your future, and the next I was left holding memories.

Today, I want to thank each and every one of you for being here, for surrounding our family with love, and for honoring the beautiful life of my son, Collins.

Standing here is the hardest thing I have ever done.

No parent expects to outlive their child. No mother imagines she will one day speak of her child in memories instead of dreams. Yet even in the midst of this unbearable sorrow, I remain forever grateful for one precious gift:

The privilege of being Collins' mom.

A Tribute from Mum

There are countless memories flooding my heart today, but the ones I cherish most are the simple moments that made up our everyday life.

I will always remember the way your face lit up when you talked about video games, soccer, and all the adventures we had planned for this summer. We dreamed of days filled with laughter and memories after I returned from visiting your grandparents. We had so much left to do together, so many plans waiting to be lived.

Now those dreams remain unfinished, carried only in my heart.

I will miss the little things that made you uniquely you.

I will miss the timers you set to wake me up for work.

I will miss your reminders when it was time to take you shopping.

I will miss the excitement in your voice when you wanted McDonald's fries or one of the many foods you loved.

Most of the time, Collins, you were the one deciding what we would eat at home—and somehow, we were always happy to let you choose.

Those moments seemed ordinary then. Today, they are treasures.

I will miss our family dinners at Texas Roadhouse, the conversations, the laughter, and simply watching you enjoy being surrounded by the people who loved you most.

The depth of our pain today is only a reflection of the depth of our love for you. And what a great love that is.

I still do not know how I will walk through the grocery store without thinking of you.

I do not know how I will go to work without your FaceTime calls checking in on me, sharing stories about your day, and reminding me that no matter how busy life became, I was always your mom.

A Tribute from Mum

My love, watch over me.

I am broken. I am crushed. I am a mother carrying a grief too heavy for words.

Yet even through these tears, I know this:

To have lost you is heartbreaking. But to have had you as my son is one of the greatest blessings of my life.

I am so proud of you.

For ten beautiful years, you knew how deeply you were loved. You never lacked affection, care, or support. Everything I did was because of my love for you. Your happiness was my mission, your smile my reward.

I would do it all again a thousand times.

Collins, my sweet boy, I love you more than words can ever express.

I will speak your name with pride. I will tell your story with love. I will keep your memory alive in every beat of my heart.

Though I can no longer hold your hand, I will carry you with me wherever I go.

You will live in every sunrise that reminds me of your smile. In every soccer ball rolling across a field. In every laughter-filled room. In every prayer whispered through tears.

Until the day we meet again, my son, know this:

You were loved beyond measure. You are missed beyond words. And you will be remembered beyond a lifetime.

I celebrate you today and always, my beautiful son, my sweet boy.

Rest peacefully, Collins.

Forever in Our Hearts

A Tribute from Trevor

Older Brother

Good afternoon, everyone.

Thank you all for being here today to celebrate the life of my younger brother, Collins. Your love, support, and presence mean more to my family and me than words can ever express.

Today, I stand before you with a heart that is both grateful and broken—grateful for the years I was blessed to have Collins in my life, and broken because those years were far too few.

Collins was more than my younger brother.

He was my friend, my teammate, my partner in adventure, and one of life's greatest gifts.

Growing up together, we shared countless moments that shaped our lives. We laughed until our stomachs hurt, argued over the smallest things, competed over everything, and created memories that I thought would last us a lifetime. Like all brothers, we had our disagreements, but beneath every argument was a bond built on love—a bond that never wavered.

As the older brother, I always felt it was my job to look out for him.

I wanted to protect him, guide him, and be someone he could trust and look up to. I imagined watching him grow, celebrating his achievements, and sharing all the milestones that life still had waiting for him.

I never imagined I would be standing here today, saying goodbye.

A Tribute from Trevor

The loss of Collins has left a silence where laughter used to be, and an emptiness in my heart that can never truly be filled.

There are so many things I wish I had told him. So many more memories I wish we could have created. So many adventures we never got the chance to experience together.

But even in the midst of this heartbreak, I find comfort in knowing that the time we shared was filled with love, joy, and a connection that death can never take away.

Collins had a special gift.

He brought light wherever he went. His smile could brighten the darkest day. His laughter was contagious. His kindness touched everyone fortunate enough to know him.

He never had to try to make people happy—it simply happened because of who he was.

Though his life was short, his impact was immeasurable.

He leaves behind memories that will live on in our hearts and stories that will continue to be told for generations.

To those of us who loved him, Collins was not just someone we knew. He was someone who changed us. And because of him, our lives are forever richer.

A Tribute from Trevor

Collins, my little brother, thank you.

Thank you for every laugh we shared. For every game we played. For every adventure we experienced. For every lesson you taught me without even realizing it.

Thank you for being a constant source of joy, love, and light.

You may no longer walk beside me, but you will never leave me.

I will carry you in my heart wherever I go. I will hear you in our memories. I will see you in every act of kindness. I will find you in every smile that reminds me of yours.

And I promise that I will honor your memory by living a life that would make you proud.

Until we meet again, little brother, know that you were deeply loved, beyond words and beyond measure.

You will always be a part of me. You will always be my brother. And you will always be missed.

Rest peacefully, Collins.

I love you, little brother, and I always will.

Grandfather

My dear grandson Collins,

No grandfather ever imagines that one day he will stand beside the grave of his own grandchild. I prayed that God would spare your life so that I could watch you grow into the great man you were meant to become. Instead, today I must say goodbye.

Your laughter filled our hearts with joy, and your innocent smile brought light wherever you went. The silence you have left behind is unbearable. Though my heart is broken beyond words, I surrender to God's will, knowing He loves you even more than we did.

Sleep peacefully, my dear grandson. Until we meet again, you will forever remain in my heart.

Tribute by Colleen Cheptoo Rotich

Aunt and Namesake

Dear Collins,

I prayed tirelessly and sent voice notes believing you would wake up from that hospital bed, but God's will was different. It is so hard to accept because I had looked forward to seeing you again after so many years. I still remember your last video proudly showing me your "six-pack" and calling yourself Superman, telling me you would come in December. I never imagined that would be our final conversation.

Though your journey on earth was short, your smile and love will remain in our hearts forever. Rest peacefully, my dear namesake. Until we meet again.

Grandmother

My precious Collins,

How do I say goodbye to a child I loved so deeply? I had dreamed of watching you grow, celebrating your milestones, and holding your hand for many more years. Instead, I am left holding onto memories and tears.

I still hear your voice, see your beautiful smile, and remember the happiness you brought into our family. My heart aches because your place can never be filled. You were taken from us too soon, and the pain of losing you is beyond anything words can express.

Go well, my sweet grandson. Grandma will always love you, will always miss you, and will carry you in her heart until the day we meet again in God's eternal home.

Tribute by Brian Chey

Uncle

Dear Collins,

Your cheerful smile, playful spirit, and loving heart brought joy to everyone around you. Though your time with us was far too short, the memories we shared will remain with us forever. We thank God for the precious years He gave us with you.

Rest in eternal peace, our dear nephew. You will always be loved and deeply missed.

Uncle

Dear Collins,

Your life was a blessing, and your memories will forever remain in our hearts. We will miss your laughter, your innocence, and the happiness you brought to our family. Though we did not expect to part with you this soon, we trust God with your soul.

Rest in peace, dear nephew. You will never be forgotten.

Tribute by Samson Kiprop

Uncle

Dear Collins,

It breaks my heart to say goodbye so soon. You were a bright, kind, and courageous young boy with a beautiful future ahead. Even though you are no longer with us, your memory will continue to inspire us to cherish every moment.

Sleep well, dear Collins. May God grant you eternal rest.
