REFRAIN
*Salama, salama,
Roboni, roboni,

Zimewekwa msalabani;
Wala sichukui laana yake,
Ni salama rohoni mwangu.

Roboni, roboni,
Ni salama roboni mwangu.*
2. Ingawa Shetani atanitesa,
Nitajipa moyo kwani;
Kristo ameona unyonge wangu,
Amekufa kwa roho yangu.

This is my story, this is my song,
Praising my Savior all the day long.*

Visions of rapture now burst on my sight;
Angels descending, bring from above
Echoes of mercy, whispers of love.
REFRAIN
*This is my story, this is my song,
Praising my Savior all the day long;
This is my story, this is my song,
Praising my Savior all the day long.*
3. Perfect submission, all is at rest,
I in my Savior am happy and blest;
Watching and waiting, looking above,
Filled with His goodness, lost in His love.
REFRAIN
*This is my story, this is my song,
Praising my Savior all the day long;
This is my story, this is my song,
Praising my Savior all the day long.*

The Life Story of Collo

A life filled with joy, kindness, laughter, and love

Today, we gather to celebrate the beautiful life of our beloved Collo, whose time with us was far too short, yet whose impact will remain in our hearts forever.

Collo was born on May 12, 2016, on a peaceful night to his loving parents, Judy Cheruto and Nixon Namaswa Wetende. From the moment he entered this world, he brought immense joy, hope, and love to his family. As the second-born child, he shared a special bond with his older brother, Trevor Kiplangat. Together, they created countless cherished memories filled with laughter, adventure, and unconditional love.

Collo began his educational journey in kindergarten in Eldoret, Kenya, before continuing to primary school. He later joined Faye Webb Elementary School for Grade 1 and most recently attended Autumn Creek Elementary School, where he successfully completed Grade 4 and had been promoted to Grade 5. He was a bright, curious, and determined learner who loved going to school, making friends, and discovering something new each day.

Those who knew Collo will always remember him as a joyful, loving, kind, and generous boy. His radiant smile and contagious laughter brought happiness to everyone around him. He had a gentle heart that made people feel welcomed, valued, and loved. His kindness and cheerful spirit left a lasting impression on all who had the privilege of knowing him.

Family, friendship, soccer, and adventure

Family meant everything to Collo. He treasured every moment spent with his parents, Judy Cheruto and Nixon Namaswa Wetende, and his beloved brother, Trevor Kiplangat. He was deeply loved by his extended family, including his grandparents, cousins, aunts, uncles, and many relatives who will forever cherish his memory.

Collo was a cherished grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Rotich of Kaminjei, Litein, Kericho County, and Grandma Joyce Osoro of Shilakhalu, Khwisero, Kakamega County. He shared a special bond with his cousins, including Natasha, Miller, Kimberly, Chelel, Kibet, Jewel Martha Waswa, J. Wanga, and many others. He was also a beloved nephew to Brian, Samson, Cheluget, Allan Wanga, Agnetta Amboko, Anthony Lubangah, and many relatives who loved him dearly.

Collo had a passion for soccer and loved staying active. He was happiest running on the field with his friends, enjoying every moment of the game he loved. He was also an enthusiastic gamer who especially enjoyed playing Fortnite, where he proudly used the character name Ann1lator.

Whether outdoors or online, Collo treasured the time he spent with his friends Jason, Njuguna, Harriet, Ryan, Tim, Zawadi, Thuo, Adriel, Nate, Kimberly, and Vicky. Together, they shared countless moments of laughter, exciting adventures, friendly competition, and unforgettable memories - both in person and through video games. Their friendship brought Collo great happiness, and the memories they created together will forever be cherished.

Forever remembered for the love he shared

Like many children his age, Collo found joy in life's simple pleasures - laughter, adventure, and spending time with those he loved. He especially enjoyed road trips and often preferred the excitement of the journey over the destination itself.

Although Collo's earthly journey lasted only ten precious years, he taught us lessons that many spend a lifetime trying to learn. He showed us the beauty of kindness, the power of a genuine smile, and the importance of loving others wholeheartedly. His life reminds us that greatness is not measured by the number of years we live, but by the love we share and the memories we leave behind.

As we say goodbye with heavy hearts, we also give thanks for the priceless gift of Collo's life. We will forever cherish his beautiful smile, infectious laughter, gentle heart, and the joy he brought into our lives. Though he is no longer with us in person, his love will remain with us always, inspiring us to live with kindness, compassion, and hope.

Rest in eternal peace, dear Collo.

You will always be deeply loved, forever remembered, and forever in our hearts.

A Tribute from Dad

Immediate family tribute – to be read during the funeral service

To My Beloved Son, Collo

I never imagined I would have to write these words. My heart is broken, and there are no words that can truly express the pain of losing you. From the day you were born, you filled my life with joy, laughter, and purpose. You were not just my son—you were my best friend. We called each other "Bro," and that simple word meant so much. It reflected the special bond we shared, one built on love, friendship, and countless happy moments. Every morning, you knew my routine. Before I left for work, you would come running to me with excitement and say, "Hey Dad, let's play soccer before you go!" Sometimes you would add, "Let's do some workout before you go." No matter how busy I was, those moments became some of the greatest blessings of my life. I will forever miss kicking the ball with you, exercising together, and seeing the joy on your face. Soccer was our language. It was more than a game—it was our time together. Those memories will live in my heart forever. Whenever your mum was at work and I was home, you would climb into my bed and sleep beside me.

You loved being close to us, and when I was away, you would do the same with your mum. Those quiet moments, which once seemed so ordinary, are now among my most treasured memories. Your love for your family was pure, and your presence made our house feel complete. You were always happy, loving, and full of life. You had a way of bringing smiles wherever you went. You loved spending time with your friends, and I remember how excited you would be when you asked me to take you to your friend's house. Seeing you happy was all I ever wanted. Collo, you were my heart. You were my everything. Being your father was one of the greatest gifts God ever gave me. You taught me to laugh more, to love more deeply, and to cherish every moment. Today, I have no answers. I have no words that can explain why you had to leave so soon. I only know that I will miss your voice calling me "Bro," your warm hugs, your smile, and the sound of your laughter. There will always be an empty place in my heart that only you could fill. Thank you for the privilege of being your dad. Thank you for every soccer game, every workout, every hug, every smile, and every precious moment we shared. Until we meet again, my son, my Bro, know that you will forever be loved, forever missed, and forever carried in my heart.

Rest peacefully, my son. Dad loves you always and forever.

A Tribute from Mum

My dear son,

On May 12, 2016, we welcomed you into this world with hearts overflowing with love. From the moment you arrived, you came as a blessing beyond measure. You filled our home with laughter, joy, and light. You made me, your mother, happier than I had ever been, and you made your big brother's dream come true—the sibling he had wished and prayed for over so many years. My baby, my heart feels cheated and robbed of a love that can never be replaced. No words are powerful enough to fully celebrate who you were or how deeply you were loved. You were my perfect son. The joy of watching you grow, of seeing the man you would become, was taken from me without warning. One moment I was dreaming of your future, and the next I was left holding memories. Today, I want to thank each and every one of you for being here, for surrounding our family with love, and for honoring the beautiful life of my son, Collins. Standing here is the hardest thing I have ever done. No parent expects to outlive their child. No mother imagines she will one day speak of her child in memories instead of dreams. Yet even in the midst of this unbearable sorrow, I remain forever grateful for one precious gift: The privilege of being Collins' mom. There are countless memories flooding my heart today, but the ones I cherish most are the simple moments that made up our everyday life. I will always remember the way your face lit up when you talked about video games, soccer, and all the adventures we had planned for this summer. We dreamed of days filled with laughter and memories after I returned from visiting your grandparents. We had so much left to do together, so many plans waiting to be lived. Now those dreams remain unfinished, carried only in my heart. I will miss the little things that made you uniquely you. I will miss the timers you set to wake me up for work. I will miss your reminders when it was time to take you shopping. I will miss the excitement in your voice when you wanted McDonald's fries or one of the many foods you loved.

Most of the time, Collins, you were the one deciding what we would eat at home—and somehow, we were always happy to let you choose. Those moments seemed ordinary then. Today, they are treasures. I will miss our family dinners at Texas Roadhouse, the conversations, the laughter, and simply watching you enjoy being surrounded by the people who loved you most. The depth of our pain today is only a reflection of the depth of our love for you. And what a great love that is. I still do not know how I will walk through the grocery store without thinking of you. I do not know how I will go to work without your FaceTime calls checking in on me, sharing stories about your day, and reminding me that no matter how busy life became, I was always your mom. My love, watch over me. I am broken. I am crushed. I am a mother carrying a grief too heavy for words. Yet even through these tears, I know this: To have lost you is heartbreaking. But to have had you as my son is one of the greatest blessings of my life. I am so proud of you. For ten beautiful years, you knew how deeply you were loved. You never lacked affection, care, or support. Everything I did was because of my love for you. Your happiness was my mission, your smile my reward. I would do it all again a thousand times. Collins, my sweet boy, I love you more than words can ever express. I will speak your name with pride. I will tell your story with love. I will keep your memory alive in every beat of my heart. Though I can no longer hold your hand, I will carry you with me wherever I go. You will live in every sunrise that reminds me of your smile. In every soccer ball rolling across a field. In every laughter-filled room. In every prayer whispered through tears. Until the day we meet again, my son, know this: You were loved beyond measure. You are missed beyond words. And you will be remembered beyond a lifetime. I celebrate you today and always, my beautiful son, my sweet boy.

Rest peacefully, Collins.

A Tribute from Trevor

OLDER BROTHER AND COLLINS'S ONLY SIBLING

Good afternoon, everyone. Thank you all for being here today to celebrate the life of my younger brother, Collins. Your love, support, and presence mean more to my family and me than words can ever express. Today, I stand before you with a heart that is both grateful and broken—grateful for the years I was blessed to have Collins in my life, and broken because those years were far too few. Collins was more than my younger brother. He was my friend, my teammate, my partner in adventure, and one of life's greatest gifts. Growing up together, we shared countless moments that shaped our lives. We laughed until our stomachs hurt, argued over the smallest things, competed over everything, and created memories that I thought would last us a lifetime. Like all brothers, we had our disagreements, but beneath every argument was a bond built on love—a bond that never wavered. As the older brother, I always felt it was my job to look out for him. I wanted to protect him, guide him, and be someone he could trust and look up to. I imagined watching him grow, celebrating his achievements, and sharing all the milestones that life still had waiting for him. I never imagined I would be standing here today, saying goodbye. The loss of Collins has left a silence where laughter used to be, and an emptiness in my heart that can never truly be filled. There are so many things I wish I had told him. So many more memories I wish we could have created. So many adventures we never got the chance to experience together. But even in the midst of this heartbreak, I find comfort in knowing that the time we shared was filled with love, joy, and a connection that death can never take away.

Collins had a special gift. He brought light wherever he went. His smile could brighten the darkest day. His laughter was contagious. His kindness touched everyone fortunate enough to know him. He never had to try to make people happy—it simply happened because of who he was. Though his life was short, his impact was immeasurable. He leaves behind memories that will live on in our hearts and stories that will continue to be told for generations. To those of us who loved him, Collins was not just someone we knew. He was someone who changed us. And because of him, our lives are forever richer.

Collins, my little brother, Thank you. Thank you for every laugh we shared. For every game we played. For every adventure we experienced. For every lesson you taught me without even realizing it.

Thank you for being a constant source of joy, love, and light. You may no longer walk beside me, but you will never leave me. I will carry you in my heart wherever I go. I will hear you in our memories. I will see you in every act of kindness. I will find you in every smile that reminds me of yours. And I promise that I will honor your memory by living a life that would make you proud. Until we meet again, little brother, know that you were deeply loved, beyond words and beyond measure.

You will always be a part of me. You will always be my brother. And you will always be missed. Rest peacefully, Collins- I love you, little brother, and I always will.

Tribute by Benjamin Rotich GRANDFATHER

My dear grandson Collins, No grandfather ever imagines that one day he will stand beside the grave of his own grandchild. I prayed that God would spare your life so that I could watch you grow into the great man you were meant to become. Instead, today I must say goodbye. Your laughter filled our hearts with joy, and your innocent smile brought light wherever you went. The silence you have left behind is unbearable. Though my heart is broken beyond words, I surrender to God's will, knowing He loves you even more than we did. Sleep peacefully, my dear grandson. Until we meet again, you will forever remain in my heart.

Tribute by Colleen Cheptoo Rotich
AUNT AND NAMESAKE

Dear Collins, I prayed tirelessly and sent voice notes believing you would wake up from that hospital bed, but God's will was different. It is so hard to accept because I had looked forward to seeing you again after so many years. I still remember your last video proudly showing me your "six-pack" and calling yourself Superman, telling me you would come in December. I never imagined that would be our final conversation. Though your journey on earth was short, your smile and love will remain in our hearts forever. Rest peacefully, my dear namesake. Until we meet again.

From Your Aunt, Agneta Omukamani

Dear Collins, There are pains in this life that words can never fully express, and losing you is one of them. My heart is heavy, my eyes are filled with tears, and my soul struggles to accept that you are truly gone. Your departure came far too soon, leaving all of us unprepared for a goodbye we never imagined we would have to say. There are tears that refuse to stop falling, questions that may never be answered, and an emptiness that words cannot fill. Yet even in our sorrow, we remember the incredible strength you carried. You faced life's battles with courage and determination, and your bravery became an inspiration to everyone who knew and loved you. Though your earthly journey has come to an end, your story does not end here. It lives on in every life you touched. It lives on in every smile inspired by your memory. It lives on in every heart that speaks your name with love. The love you shared, the joy you brought, and the strength you showed will remain with us forever. Today, we release you into God's loving embrace. Fly high with God's angels, dear Collins. May Heaven welcome you with open arms. May you rest where pain no longer exists, where every tear is wiped away, where peace is everlasting, and where love surrounds you forever. Until the day we meet again, know that you will always remain in our hearts. You will always be our warrior. You will always be our hero. You will always be deeply loved and dearly missed. Rest peacefully, Collins. With all my love

— Your Aunt, Agneta Omukamani

To My Brother and Sister-in-Law, Though miles separate us and I cannot be there beside you today, please receive my deepest embrace of comfort and love. No words can take away your pain, but I pray that God's strength carries you through these difficult days and that the love surrounding you reminds you that you are not alone. May Collins' beautiful memories become a source of comfort, and may his light continue to shine in your hearts forever.

With all my love and prayers.
